service overview

big box retail distribution

Are you in need of a distribution partner that is an expert in mass market retail distribution throughout North America? Look no further. When you apply NGL's distribution knowledge, technology, and expertise to your business you gain a competitive and operational advantage. Our comprehensive network of distribution centers, strategically located throughout North America, allows us to optimize a retail distribution solution based on your specific priorities: Speed to Market; Inventory Carrying Costs; Transportation Cost etc.

Our core competency at NGL is retail distribution. We have been a direct supplier for Wal-Mart and have built a base of knowledge and expertise in retail distribution that you can leverage. We understand the challenges involved in servicing all of your big box retail customers including: Wal-Mart, Target, Best Buy, Amazon.com, Toys r Us, Home Depot and many more. We have developed the systems and knowledge that will allow you to succeed in providing high levels of service to each of your accounts.

We will help reduce chargebacks from your mass market retailers by insuring that your shipments meet the specific requirements of each retailer. Our clients have won supplier of the year awards from mass market retailers based on our ability to ensure consistently high vendor compliance scores. We can help you improve your scores as well.

The unique distribution services offered by NGL start with a robust suite of integrated logistics software. This provides powerful reporting, analysis, and control of every operation and task in your distribution network.

You'll optimize shipments through systems-driven features such as rating, load building, consolidation, mode and carrier selection, route scheduling, load tendering and shipment tracking and tracing. As part of this process, we'll help you pinpoint the most efficient domestic and international freight carriers. We offer a wide array of distribution support services, including:
